

Wheels: Scott asks, “I had a tire plugged from the outside. Is this a good repair?”

Halderman: A tire repair performed from the outside using a string-like plug is common, but is not the method recommended by tire manufacturers. Tire manufacturers recommend that the tire be removed from the wheel and a patch be installed on the inside of the tire.

