

Body Electrical Accessories

Chapter 28

<http://jameshalderman.com>

ACROSS

- 3 Electric power door locks use a _____ magnet (PM) reversible motor to lock or unlock all vehicle door locks from a control switch or switches.
- 4 A _____ is made of a tinted glass panel that can be either tilted open or completely retracted to operate as an open window in the roof.
- 5 The same _____ moves air inside the vehicle for the air conditioner, heat, defrosting, defogging, and venting the passenger compartment.
- 6 _____ is used to maintain a preset vehicle speed, even up gentle grades.
- 9 _____ wiper systems use a sensor located on the inside and top of the windshield to detect rain droplets.
- 10 _____ are electric devices that emit a loud sound used to alert other drivers or persons in the area.
- 12 Adjustable pedals, also called pedal height or _____ pedals, place the brake pedal and the accelerator pedal on movable brackets that are motor operated.

- 14 _____ use electric heating elements in the bottom, as well as in the seat back, in many vehicles.
- 15 _____ use electric motors to raise and lower door glass.
- 16 A _____ is basically any kind of panel on the roof of a car that permits light, air, or both to come into a vehicle, only if the panel is opened.
- 17 Most _____-controlled cruise control systems use the vehicle's speed sensor input to the powertrain control module (PCM) for speed reference.
- 18 _____ wipers are used to keep the viewing area of the _____ clear of rain.

DOWN

- 1 An electrically _____ window defogger system uses an electrical grid baked on the glass that warms the glass to about 85 degrees and clears it of fog or frost.

- 2 _____-_____ wipers is a term used to describe the operation of the wipers that operate on an interval that can be delayed when the rain is light.
- 3 Variable-delay wipers are also called _____.
- 7 A _____ is the ability to start the engine of the vehicle from a distance by using a remote control.
- 8 A _____ wheel usually consist of a built-in heater in the rim, a control switch, and a control module.
- 11 The _____ is designed to prevent windows from causing injury when they are closing, if the vehicle is equipped with power windows.
- 13 _____ are fabric or screen-like material installed on the inside of the vehicle that can be raised, lowered, or moved to block the rays of the sun from entering the interior of the vehicle.